Bath Bomb

Lush just begs customers to reconsider the bath. Its fist-size Bath Bombs are compressed balls with essential oils and creme of tartar that fizz when you drop them into the bath. The Sex bomb blends jasmine, clary sage and ylang ylang, while the Champagne Supernova gets its kick from orange and cognac (18 scents, $4.70 to $5.95).

Or try a Bubble Bar, which you crumble under running water to create a tub full of bubbles. The 13 scents include Blue Skies and Fluffy White Clouds. ($5.45 to $10.75) Visit www.lushusa.com.

ASPEN BRUSHED NICKEL

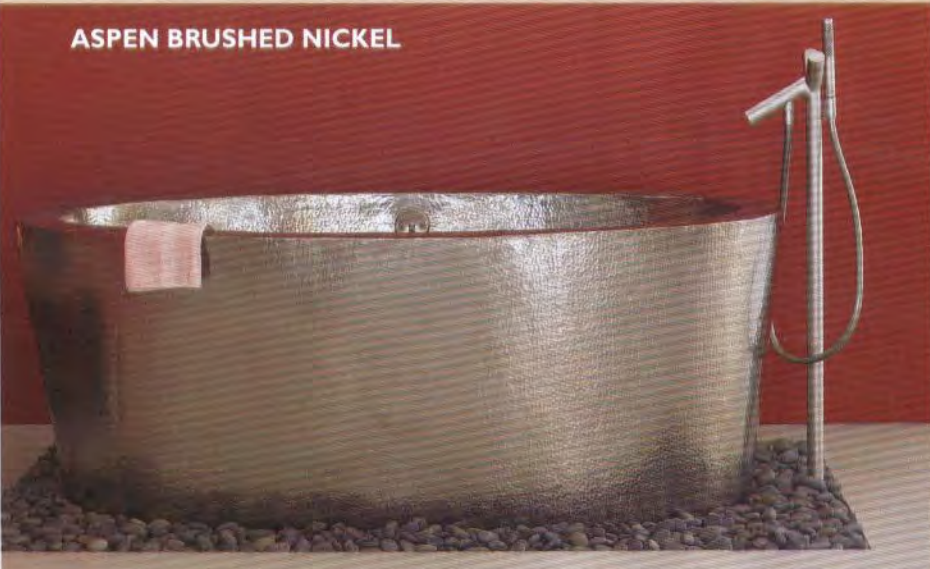

Handcrafted and hammered, the generous oval Aspen tub has a richly textured surface that reflects light from every angle and exudes a glamorous shine. The double wall design and the high heat conductivity of copper add further indulgence; when hot water starts filling the tub, the tub surface heats up. $27,500

AQUAPAL'S soaking tubs are one-of-a-kind functional art pieces that are handcrafted in the Shigaraki region of Japan, where their ceramic-making history goes back more than 1250 years. Shigaraki is one of the six ancient kilns of Japan. Each soaking tub is custom made to a customer's requirements, so prices vary (mostly based on size). The one shown in the photo has a list price of about $15,000.
